Comment: We just experienced our first day of school during these unprecedented times. I'm grateful to my children's teachers and all the staff and families at our school for their preparation and flexibility. But we didn't have to experience this week of uncertainty.

Comment: I support any plan who's intent is to get schools open next calendar year. Please keep in mind that a zero Covid infection is not likely possible and I don't think needed. We need a plan that greatly reduces the risk of Covid spread and that should be good enough to open schools. Let's think about the likelihood of a zero Covid infection and how to prevent it.
